INTRODUCTION

Welcome Brave Hearts!

The following information has been assembled from my 40 years of experience in health care and health research 'in the trenches'.

I believe we have entered a time of medical tyranny that I call 'Medicalization'.

Remember, all beliefs and systems have a life of their own – the more you feed them the more they grow. When based on unconditional love for ourselves and each other, beliefs heal, unite and strengthen us individually and as a nation; when beliefs are based on fear, greed and power... Well, remember, whatever you feed will eventually feed on you. Unhealthy beliefs are the disease that suffocates the spirit and eventually rots the mind and the body... Always remember, where the mind goes the body must follow without question – master the mind to master the body.

Emotional blocks will eventually become physical blocks that are crippling. These are the 'issues in the tissues'.

We have discussed how the human body is a vessel for frequencies but what if these frequencies do not harmonize but terrorize us all the way down to the cellular level. When we are unable to process negative emotions all 'cell' breaks loose.

We have already shown this... in detail... in the 'A to Z Wellness' guide and Masterclass series on how issues in your tissues form crystallization, internal scar tissue and calcification in your tissues, joints and organs.

Today we are going to go deeper, and show you how the invisible creates the physical and that psychological always trumps the biological.

So together let's uncover and discover the emotional intelligence of cancer, disease and healing and unravel what the medical system calls a "mystery"... which by the way, is the ultimate power of self-healing.

Until we are willing to accept the truth, that most medical health care is based on fraudulent science, we will never have the power to heal ourselves or our family.

Conventional medicine views the immune system, as a defense system against microbes and cancer cells. Medical science believes 'a weakened immune system' is the major cause of all disease. Conventional medicine views our body as a battlefield... a war zone... where antibodies and white blood cells constitute an army of killer cells ready to attack the enemy. Understand, the fantasies of modern medicine have no limits; this is how they turn us from 'thrivers' into 'survivors'... cut, poison, burn... and repeat.

If you do not believe that we are creating our own diseases on an unconscious, subconscious level then why is it that 86% of the population suffers from an autoimmune disease.

Do you know what the definition of an autoimmune disease is?
It is a condition where your immune system mistakenly attacks your own body.

But let's be clear about this, disease is not genetic... it's epigenetic and this is a scientific fact. So I believe, the real definition of an autoimmune disease is, 'attacking oneself with dysfunctional beliefs on a subconscious level'. The reality of your health is based on your personality, which is based on the programs you run, which are based on the beliefs that you have been taught throughout your life.

How does it feel to 'not' be in control of your health? This will continue until you understand that where the mind goes the body follows. You must view your mind as a beautiful garden that must be weeded of sick, unhealthy beliefs. Society's systems say we have choice but this is a lie that we will uncover today. You do not have a choice until you understand and awaken to the fact that self-care and self-love is the only way to navigate on a planet that operates on an emergency care system.

To make my point... Cancer is not a death sentence, it's a wake up call to the fact that you have been emotionally and physically out of alignment on an unconscious level for most of your life. This is not your fault... but it is your responsibility to wake-up and realize that only you hold the power to the self-healing you seek. And this power of 'self-healing' can only be powered by 'self-love' and 'self-care'. We can continue to go to war with ourselves and each other or we can learn to love ourselves well by creating The Perfect Day each and every day.

So let me share with you my answer to cancer, disease and healing.

CANCER & AMAZING MICROBES

Cancer is a meaningful, life saving, biological process and the microbes that we believe to be the enemy, play a supportive role in the healing of all diseases.

The immune system does not exist; what does exist is a perfect biological system, a support system rather than a defense system created to assist us while we are healing. This support system includes the antibodies, white blood cells, microbes, and countless other chemical and hormonal processes. Cancer is a meaningful, life saving, biological process and the microbes that we believe to be the enemy, play a supportive role in the healing of all diseases.

The immune system does not exist; what does exist is a perfect biological system, a support system rather than a defense system created to assist us while we are healing. This support system includes the antibodies, white blood cells, microbes, and countless other chemical and hormonal processes.

Now let's talk about the purpose of our microbes. The main purpose of microbes is to maintain our tissues and organs and keep them in a vitally healthy state throughout life. In fact, every newborn baby receives from the mother's milk the Tubercular bacteria, which indicates the significance of TB bacteria.

What I'm about to tell you may turn everything upside down and backwards but In the healing phase of cancer, fungi and TB bacteria help to remove and breakdown fibroids and tumors.

Tissue cells from a tumor are known as disposable cells, they differ in size and shape from the original cells. These micro-bacteria can differentiate disposable cells from the original cells and decompose only the cancer cells. Tubercular bacteria are truly remarkable because the moment we have a conflict shock the tubercular bacteria start multiplying parallel to the tumor growth, this is the law of nature. These TB bacteria are what I call 'Terminator Bacteria'. Their job is the disposal of fibroids and tumors but if you are unaware of this fact and decide to attack them with antibiotics and other toxic therapies they will turn on you.

The healing symptoms from this process are: discharge, night sweats, swelling, pain, inflammation, fever and severe fatigue. Depending on what organ is healing at the time will depend on where and how the tumor waste is discharged. During this healing we will see and experience TB infections in the lungs and the colon and candidiasis infections in the mouth, colon or vagina. Infections are not really diseases but rather symptoms of healing. The intensity of these healing symptoms are always determined by the intensity, depth and the length of the conflict created by the negative emotions or dysfunctional beliefs that caused the disease in the first place. And just know this, every intense conflict will cause an intense healing process.

The solution lies in not attacking the microbes but rather focusing on raising the frequency of the tissue so that we can create a healthy inner terrain. If the army's of microbes within your body have been destroyed by drugs, such as antibiotics, the tumor will not be eliminated but will become encapsulated so that it is isolated from the body... this is the medical systems way of treating the disease... not nature's way.

Every disease is created by nature to assist the host back to vital health.

And let us never forget that we are walking, talking globs of bacteria and that our bacteria also help in the reconstruction of new healthy tissue growth. The body is made up of 50 trillion cells and 500 trillion bacteria... so who's really in charge. You must also realize that the large intestine is known as the second brain, the second brain is actually the good bacteria that reside in your large intestine. Just know that when you go to war with your bacteria, you're going to war with yourself. You've been programmed on a subconscious level to unconsciously attack the second brain... your immune system... your bacteria.

Antibiotics should only be taken in life threatening situations or you will be creating life threatening situations for the rest of your life.

A detailed scanning electron micrograph (SEM) of a spherical microorganism, likely a bacterium or archaeon, showing its textured surface covered in small protrusions and several long, thin, hair-like appendages (cilia or flagella) extending outwards. The organism is centered against a dark green background with a subtle circular light effect behind it.

THE GERM THEORY

What is the Standard Medical Theory?

The standard medical theory of infectious disease is that all diseases are caused by pathogenic disease causing microorganisms.

So let me ask you a question before we move on. What came first... the mosquito or the swamp?

Louis Pasteur's theory is called the 'GERM THEORY'. Louis Pasteur lived from 1822-1895.

In 1995 Professor Gerald L. Geison from Princeton University published a book called, 'The Private Science of Louis Pasteur'. Based on Pasteur's original Laboratory notes, Gerald Geison discovered that Pasteur had in fact published fraudulent data. Professor Gerald Geison revealed to the world that Pasteur had conclusively committed scientific fraud. Professor Geison was not the first to expose Pasteur as a fraud and a liar.

Ethel Hume also exposed Pasteur as a fraud in 1923 with an article she published called, 'Pasteur Exposed'.

Also in 1940, R. B. Pearson published a book called, 'Pasteur, Plagiarist, Imposter'. So despite the fact that Pasteur's theory is wrong, conventional medicine and medical science still propagate Pasteur's false Germ theory.

The reason why this continues is because the pharmaceutical companies continue to mass produce antimicrobial drugs and vaccines. The Pharmaceutical Corporations are creating massive profits and massive deaths based on a scientific hoax, which is in collaboration with the FDA, United Nations, the World Health Organizations, the media and this is all controlled by the so called 'Elite' and the 'Banksters'.

Antoine Bechamp (1816-1908) stated Microbes are part of the 'Inner environment' of the organism. Microbes assist the metabolic process of the body. Microbes become only pathogenic when the organism is out of balance. Then and only then they become disease-causing agents. The inner terrain is everything. The inner terrain decides what and who lives within it.

Microbes play a supportive role in all healing processes of all diseases.

The brain is the mediator of your emotions and your body, first and foremost, end of story.

Fear, panic and anxiety are the main triggers that activate the dysfunctional belief systems within the subconscious that create the shock, trauma, conflict, that we call disease.

The longer and more intense the conflict, the more physical damage will be done to the body and the longer your healing process will take. Relationships are everything, especially the one you have with your body.

The medical system, along with the pharmaceutical system, have taught us to dishonor our body by no longer recognizing what the healing phase of our conflicts truly are. The most important language you will ever learn is 'body talk'.

Go to: www.newworldpractitioner.com if you wish to perfect the art of true healing.

Diseases do not originate in the body, they originate in the mind. The seed of disease is planted in the subconscious mind by dysfunctional beliefs that eventually make up your map of reality that shapes your personality. The brain, otherwise, the 'mind' initiates the biological conflict we call disease, but only after the emotional conflict triggers it.

The longer and more intense the conflict the more likely one is to lose their life. Such as with a heart attack if the conflict lasts more than 9 months the heart attack will be fatal; not just a wake up call.

We must remove the traumatic triggers that activate and motivate conflict. Conflict resolution through the BraveHeart Way is the only way. We must downgrade the panic to minimize the emotional and physical destruction by connecting to our LionHeart Breath and erasing and replacing lower vibrational beliefs as soon as possible because this erases dis-ease and replaces it with the ease of life.

Go to: docofdetoxlibrary.com and click on 'BraveHeart Emotional Intelligence 4 Life'.

One of the most damaging dysfunctional beliefs that people live with, day-in and day-out is that pain is the enemy, when in actual fact it is your body's greatest gift. Pain is your body's built in GPS that is warning you when you are out of alignment on a physical and emotional level and unconsciously killing yourself. Without this GPS, I know that I would be dead already.

Just remember, whatever you feed gets bigger, whether it be love or fear. When you feed negativity someday it will feed on you; thought form always becomes physical form... wake up BraveHeart.

Dis-ease originates within dysfunctional beliefs and fearful emotions are the driver; react – attack. But once you become aware that your life is all about the programs you run, or should I say, the programs that run you, you will awaken to this life changing fact that it is within you to heal and stay healed because all healing is self-healing where the invisible creates the physical.

If a person is conflicted for more than 9 months, a heart attack can be fatal. If a person dedicates themselves to the BraveHeart Way, they will uncover and discover their real self... their authentic self and fill up their own heart first.

When dealing with any conflict with friends, family or society it is important to always resolve the conflict within yourself first and foremost before dealing with the outer world. Most times when it comes to dealing with conflict and the outer world it is better to walk away because the change that you seek is really within YOU.

We should never rush into a conflict resolution outside ourselves before we resolve it within ourselves. Remember, it's always inside-out not outside-in, if you wish to win.

We must have conflict resolution on the emotional level before it will ever take permanent hold on the physical level... This is law.

Belief systems are genetic, diseases are epigenetic. Diseases are not malfunctions of the human body, they are support systems that warn you when you are not in alignment with spirit. You can cut out the tumor but did you cut out the belief that created it. Societies systems are the true disease which is a symptom of the toxic people in power.

We must first start looking at ourselves from within and face the conflicts in our lives that originate at the subconscious level... otherwise, mind your own business.

It is within corrupt belief systems that all disease originates; it is within healthy belief systems that healing originates; either you learn to master your mind or your mind will continue to master you... Learn or burn... Victim or BraveHeart.

Prevention and healing can only happen with ourselves... within ourselves. We can never bring order to chaos unless we go within and retrain the brain. Your personality shapes your reality. What are you willing to let go of?

From constipation to cancer, everything is rooted in the emotions.

Conventional medicine only looks at the anatomy and function of the body and draws conclusions from there. They come up with academic fiction which is absurd – we are light energy electromagnetic energy beings.

In science, if there is one exception to the theory, the theory is invalid. Knowing this, take a closer look at the medical healthcare system today; it is not even close to a precise science.

Diseases are emergency programs. Diseases are survival techniques for the emotional and physical body. Disease names tell us where the trauma is buried – that is their only purpose. Diseases are only symptoms of dysfunctional belief systems. Welcome to medical care where everything and everyone is a 9-1-1 emergency.

THE BRAVEHEART WAY

The BraveHeart Way is sacred medicine because it is focused on feeding the spirit, which heals us on all levels. Healing is whole body healing, not partial body healing.

Medicine today believes that diseases are failures of the micro-organism; that diseases are caused by pathogenic microbes, malignant cancer cells, defective genes or a weakened immune system; which I will prove is not the real story. Tell a story long enough and strong enough and the majority will always buy into it.

The art of repetition is used for good and evil; welcome to the program. The more the Cancer Association advertises cancer awareness; the more people are afflicted with cancer. You get what you focus on.

These beliefs that have been orchestrated by a corrupt system, leave the majority powerless, full of fear of contracting cancer, and at the mercy of this toxic system, with only 4 options – life threatening drugs, chemo, radiation or surgery.

Anyone that voices a different view from the medical system will be labeled a quack or a psychopath. This is a small price to pay to help liberate people by awakening them to the fact that the power to heal has always been within them. The treatment that one chooses will be decided by how much love or hate that person has for themselves on a subconscious and unconscious level.

Diseases are not errors of Nature, they are specialized programs of nature to support and protect an organism during unexpected trauma. Nature is not hostile; nature is caring and creative. The inherent force of nature is to protect its creation and to ensure its survival... your survival... because you are an essential part of nature. Conventional medicine will do anything to hide and distort Nature's secret healing powers. And this is not just a crime against nature; it's a crime against you.

"Today and every day I promise to teach the perfect day to my patients on an emotional and physical level from the moment they rise until they gently close their eyes.

I promise to teach my patients to totally trust, honor, respect, protect, forgive and love themselves first and foremost before anyone else or anything else so help me God. Because I am, I can, I will unleash their Brave Heart."

BIOLOGICAL CONFLICT

All disease originates from a biological conflict. Examples of this are losing a job, loss of a loved one or being emotionally caught off guard by an unexpected or unforeseen crisis. Healing cannot take place until the trauma, whether real or unreal, is resolved within the brain by using the heart brain connection and working with the spirit to resolve the conflict.

Depending on the conflict, symptoms can range from weakness to complete immobility. The symptoms will last until the mind believes there is no more threat. The unconscious programs we run can be a killer, especially the suffering program where the greater the trauma, the more suffering must be endured.

Biological conflict is the main cause of disease. conflicts of loss, separation conflicts, abandonment conflicts, death conflicts, fright conflicts, sympathy conflicts, existence conflicts, starvation conflicts, nest worry conflicts, territorial conflicts, sexual conflict, attack conflicts and feeling stuck in life conflicts. Conflicts that threaten our survival or our home, or the connection with family or community can be devastating and even life threatening if we do not have the proper tools, such as with the BraveHeart Way 12 Self Loving Steps, to resolve these quickly and efficiently. Breaking yourself out of judgment jail is not only essential, but life saving. Uncover and discover the invisible bonds that bind you.

The mind determines whether something is a trauma or not, by your prominent and dominant beliefs systems.

Most traumas occur on a subconscious level and depending on the trauma it will affect a different part of the body or a specific organ.

Some examples of these are:

Suffering conflict of loss, whether real or unreal, will create an imbalance or otherwise disease within the ovaries.

Suffering a separation conflict for a woman can involve the lining of the milk ducts in the right breast if she is right handed.

An existence conflict such as, 'how can I make it on my own', will cause disease within the kidneys.

A starvation conflict such as the fear of not knowing how to provide food for oneself or one's family will create disease within the liver.

The nest worry conflict, when it comes to children, will cause disease within the breast glands of the left breast, which is for a right-handed woman.

The feeling stuck conflict can cause dis-ease within the legs.

The key when entering into a trauma and avoiding the state of dis-ease is with the LionHeart Breathing and snapping back to reality with the BraveHeart Love Band, Life Band so that we can snap back to the present moment in an instant... which is the only point of power... where all creation and healing takes place, the present moment.

The most important step is to resolve the conflict as soon as possible to lessen the physical damage so the healing phase is shorter and less severe.

The only place to reclaim the gift of healing is within the present moment. Most people that are suffering with a chronic illness are caught in the past, in the future or both. You cannot heal in these time zones.

As soon as the trauma is resolved, healing begins instantly. Healing cannot and will not take place in a sympathetic state; this is why a traumatized cancer patient will never heal; they will only survive and never thrive.

The more we focus on the physical the more we drain our energy field, otherwise our personal field of power, which is our spirit.

If we are physically in good shape and we have the proper tools emotionally to deal with trauma then all trauma is short lived and never life threatening.

Most people are taught that the depth and the length of their suffering should equal the drama or the trauma. So, if we buy into this belief then we believe that whoever suffers the most - loves the most. This belief is not just dysfunctional but is life-threatening for anyone who runs this program.

Feeling abandoned, left out, or left behind is one of the most difficult experiences. We are social beings... we are tribal. Abandonment is linked to disease of the kidneys.

Suffering from the abandonment existence conflict will create disease within the kidneys. Examples of this is, 'I feel abandoned, I can no longer exist'.

When we feel like a fish out of water, otherwise, alone or isolated we will have trouble urinating - this is the abandonment conflict or an existence conflict or a fear for one's life whether real or not real. In this situation we starve ourselves of water, we put ourselves in the desert because we have been 'deserted'. Without water all the metabolic processes of the body stop functioning. Welcome to the majority of the population who suffer with dehydration, inflammation, internal scar tissue formation and eventually displaced calcium to keep you alive... until you have conflict resolution.

Go to: library/docofdetox.com and click on the 'A to Z Wellness' Guide.

A cancer diagnosis, or when our livelihood is at stake, can also trigger an existence conflict. The feeling we experience behind an existence conflict is 'I've lost everything', emotionally and physically. Examples of this are loss of a loved one, divorce or loss of a home. To make my point, the Cancer Association has made cancer into a death sentence. Where the mind goes the body must follow; be the master of all your thoughts or they will master you.

The moment the abandonment or existence conflict is triggered or takes place, the area of the brain that's in charge of the kidneys is switched on, setting off stress and inflammation in the kidneys. This inflammation shuts down the valve in the kidneys causing water retention, because of contraction and internal scar tissue formation. So, to make this clear, before any other part of your body becomes inflamed, the corresponding area of the brain becomes inflamed first. Where the brain goes the body follows, whether it is regeneration, inflammation or mutation.

To make my point, the Cancer Association has made cancer into a death sentence; where the mind goes the body must follow so be the master of all your thoughts or they will master you.

The moment the abandonment or existence conflict is triggered or takes place, the conflict impact in the area of the brain that's in charge of the kidneys is switched on. This sets off stress and inflammation in the kidneys and this inflammation shuts down the valve in the kidneys causing water retention because of contraction and internal scar tissue formation. So to make this clear, before any other part of your body becomes inflamed the corresponding area of the brain becomes inflamed first... where the brain goes the body follows, whether this is regeneration or inflammation and mutation.

In the case of conflict of existence your body not only retains water, but will recycle creatinine into protein as a form of nutrition for the body because of the threat of starving from protein deficiency because the mind believes that you are in the middle of a desert. Creatinine is a waste product of protein metabolism, which is usually eliminated with the urine. In the body's attempt to support this conflict it may cause uremia, which is too much creatinine in the blood. This emotional trauma of - conflict of existence has created an emergency situation and this existence conflict is the cause.

The degree of the water retention is determined by the intensity of the conflict. Now that you know this, you will notice even the slightest abandonment issue. You will notice your shoes feeling tight, rings hard to get off and even your socks will leave indents on your legs and of course decreased urine output; urine will have a deep yellow color. A side effect of water retention is weight gain; one quart of water is approximately two and a half pounds. So if we exercise, have a good diet and have a hard time losing weight then the abandonment conflict is being run on an unconscious level. All this water is stored within the fat cells and inflates the fat cells.

With overweight children, it is not just a diet issue; it's an abandonment issue. This conflict is becoming more prevalent in our society due to the conflict and anxiety being created by the same systems that we think are here to protect us. Emotional and physical abuse, inside and outside the home, play a large part in a child's abandonment issue. Our children and our pets suffer the most with abandonment issues. If the abandonment issue continues for a long period of time there is a high risk that a tumor can form within the kidneys. Remember, the invisible creates the physical whether good or bad, healthy or unhealthy, so become conscious of your programs.

As soon as this emotional conflict is resolved, the stress, inflammation and mutation to the kidneys instantly stops and then bacteria and fungi begin to remove the necrotic tissue or tumor so healing can take place and tissue can be restored. Bacteria and fungi are the oldest living organisms on the planet. We must understand that it was not the bacteria or the fungus that created the infection, inflammation or the cancer; they are the cleanup crew, they are the healers. Microbes' being the enemy is one of the most misleading concepts in health today. Never forget the greatest equation by Albert Einstein, $E=mc^2$... energy equals mass... thoughts create things... the bug is not the problem.

As soon as a person reaches conflict resolution, water retention and creatinine storage is eliminated.

CONFLICT: CERVIX & PROSTATE

Abandonment can also be interpreted as rejection, particularly sexual rejection. When this occurs, with women it's the cervix, with men it's the prostate.

The Cervix

The cervix is the passageway to the uterus. The conflict to the cervix is the conflict of not being able to mate. Feelings of rejection, sexual abuse of any sort, sexual frustration, feelings of being rejected or unwanted, or when a woman's partner is interested in another person. When this conflict occurs the cervix begins to ulcerate and have tissue loss.

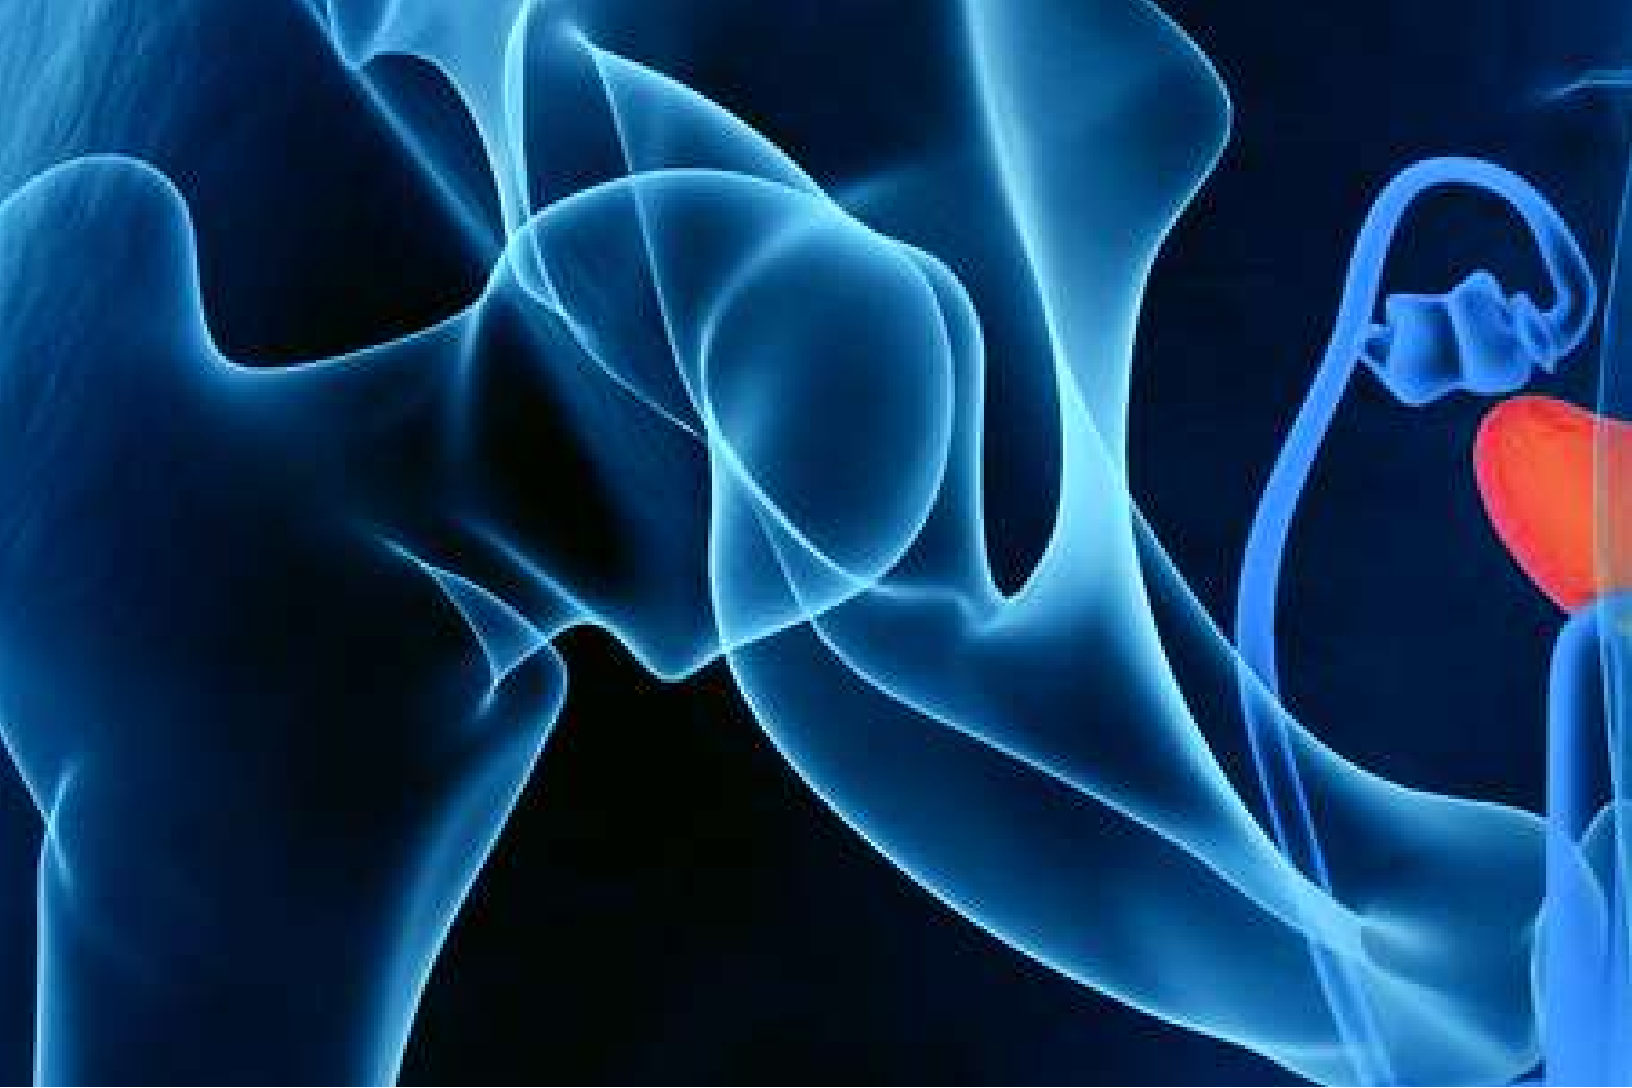

But when it comes to the biological purpose of the tissue loss with the cervix it is to widen the cervix so when mating finally takes place more sperm can reach the uterus, which increases the chance of conception.

Never forget, first we have an image, then a thought, then an emotion, which creates a frequency which triggers hormones and chemicals that either create or degenerate and even mutate.

This conflict of sexual rejection can happen at an early age or even later in life. Signs of sexual rejection conflict can be cold hands or trouble sleeping. Cervical cancer is a normal reaction to sexual rejection conflict. As soon as the conflict is resolved the cervix will be restored to perfect balance. During the conflict active phase we experience no symptoms. After we resolve the conflict on an emotional level, we are then no longer preoccupied with the conflict, so now we enter the healing phase and begin to experience physical symptoms such as fatigue, exhaustion, can't get out of bed, pain, inflammation, swelling and infections; this is all part of the brain and the body's natural healing phase. But these symptoms that we experience from the body's natural healing phase do not feel normal or natural due to the misinformation and lies that the majority of medical doctors and natural health care professionals have been indoctrinated with over the last 150 years. Go to: library/docofdetox.com and click on 'Medical Mafia'.

The longer we are in this sexual rejection conflict active phase, the more intense these healing symptoms will be and the longer it will take to heal.

When it comes to symptoms of healing, even our so-called health professionals are misinformed. Here's an example for you. An edema is a water pocket that protects the area while it's in the healing phase. Healing always occurs in a fluid environment so there will always be swelling, which can cause pain; there can also be bleeding and discharge at this time because of this reconstructive restoration process of cleansing and regeneration. Medical professionals and even natural health practitioners view this phase as a negative because they have been misinformed. The idea is to work with and control these healing symptoms, not stop them. This is the phase where the cervix fills in and restores itself as long as there is no emotional conflict relapse otherwise, trauma. A relapse will only prolong the healing phase. This is why the BraveHeart Way is so important; it teaches us how to better understand what the triggers are to the sexual conflict so that we can create a new reality map in the mind to assist the biological process of permanent self-healing.

If the healing phase continues to drag on for months and months then we know the sexual conflict has not been properly dealt with on an emotional level, so then we must find and eliminate the triggers. We must neutralize all the triggers so that healing can be completed. This is why the BraveHeart 12 Loving steps are a must, if permanent healing is your desire.

In the case of pap tests, the results can be positive but these results are just markers and most health professionals do not understand the natural process of healing, otherwise the process where your body is sloughing off the disease causing agents.

The dirty little secret of healthcare today is to distract the patient away from the natural healing phase of self-healing.

Medicine believes that diseases are errors of nature, but they are not, they are part of nature's perfect plan of self-healing.

The Prostate

Let's talk about the prostate. The prostate is a gland that produces seminal fluid; it is the main organ that secures procreation. A protein that is a component of the seminal fluid is known as PSA or Prostate Specific Antigen.

A procreation conflict for a male is not being able to mate. Remember, when a female is not able to mate the cervix begins to ulcerate causing tissue loss. If a male cannot mate the prostate tissue cells start to proliferate, otherwise a rapid increase in cell production and the biological purpose of the proliferation is to produce more seminal fluid.

A procreation conflict can occur when the male cannot have children or grandchildren, this is a biological concern. This can also be a sexual mating conflict, such as sexual rejection, sexual frustration or feeling sexually unwanted. The prostate is also linked to what we call a gender conflict. A gender conflict is about being disregarded as a man, a husband, as the father of the children, as the provider of the family; so, ugly divorces, custody battles, emotional and financial abuse can also trigger this procreation conflict. The moment the procreation conflict occurs this impacts the area of the brain that controls the prostate and this program is switched on. At this point the prostate cells begin to proliferate, or multiply, so the PSA level naturally rises with it; inflammation is and always will be the trigger but the trigger of inflammation will always be emotional conflict. We know that conventional medicine uses PSA levels as a tumor marker. There's nothing abnormal about an elevated PSA level, all it indicates is that the male is procreation conflict active with a prostate related conflict. This is an absolutely normal event. If the conflict lasts over a long period of time the cell proliferation forms a prostate tumor or prostate cancer. During this procreation conflict active phase there are usually no symptoms. It's the pressure and the anxiety to get tested that has made prostate cancer the highest cancer in males. Where the mind goes the body must follow, we are constantly being programmed without our knowing it and this is why conflict resolution is the key to all healing. In the last 5 years prostate cancer has gone up 40% and is expected to go up 400% by 2030. My personal opinion is, the large intestine, which is 85% of the immune system is rotting out and because the prostate sits right in front of the last four inches of the large intestine, the prostate is now swimming in the middle of a cesspool of putrefaction. The integrity of your large intestine is the key to this male prostate pandemic.

The increased advertising and pressure around testing for cancer has also increased the numbers of cancer over the last few decades. As soon as this procreation conflict is resolved the healing phase sets in and now we are seeing the physical symptoms of being out of alignment. So now the real healing begins; your bacteria begin to decompose the tumor, eliminating the waste through the urine and this is why the urine is cloudy and may even have traces of blood in it. They may also experience night sweats, may be tired, experience pain and may even require a catheter until the swelling reduces. It is also important to understand that the sooner we get rid of the catheter the less scar tissue we create and quicker the healing. It is very important to supplement the protein loss with whole plant based protein and amino acid supplementation.

During the healing phase of any cancer, amino acids are essential on a continual basis throughout the day because of protein loss.

Night sweats are a huge indication that more amino acids are needed.

Cancer has a ferocious appetite for amino acids so supplementation is important to prevent muscle wastage. When the conflict is resolved the tumor will still be there but the PSA will return to normal provided there is no conflict relapse. Remember, there is no reason to panic over an elevated PSA level and if you do, this only feeds it. Nature does not make mistakes.

A man can have an elevated PSA level even if he does not have prostate cancer or even if his prostate has been removed. On top of this, women can also have an elevated PSA level so there goes that theory.

High PSA levels can be experienced with women who have metastatic breast cancer. PSA can also be found in the breast, liver and salivary glands. This means there is nothing specific about the prostate specific antigen, otherwise the PSA.

What is an antigen?

An antigen is a substance that stimulates the immune system. No immune system... no antigen. So understand, antigens are normal and natural.

Hospitalization can also cause abandonment conflict, which causes urine retention or water retention by shutting down urination. Lack of doctor care and lack of visitors can also cause abandonment conflict. Make sure you always stay with loved ones while in the hospital. Everyone needs an advocate. This can save a life – shining your love is the answer.

Excess water retention can severely slow down the healing phase.

1. With water retention every tumor becomes larger, which often leads to a diagnosis of a fast growing tumor or as an aggressive tumor, which leads to more aggressive toxic treatments. With more fear comes more water retention; what a vicious cycle. This all leads to increased pain, increased pain medication, such as morphine and morphine derivatives, which reduces the success of the healing and the chance of survival for this patient.

2. Cortisol is a steroid, it is a stimulant, it has strong sympathicotonia properties, and otherwise it stimulates the sympathetic nervous system causing vascular spasm, abnormally high blood pressure and other negative symptoms. Cortisol increases water retention, which means this can be dangerous especially in cases with tumors in the bile duct, brain and colon. Increased swelling in the bile duct and colon can be life threatening because of excessive pressure or a complete blockage.

Mood disorders and mental disorders are also linked to biological conflicts, which means these disorders have a brain and organ correlation. As I stated before, where the mind goes the body follows; issues in the tissues are conflicts unresolved. People have been programmed to fail. Our goal, personally and as a community, is to resolve conflicts. All emotional blocks become physical blocks, which society calls diseases.

The more conflicts a person is running at the same time, the more unbalanced they will be mentally and emotionally. Depending on the degree of the conflicts involved, this mental imbalance can range from mood disorders to a severe manic-depressive state, all the way to severe mental illness.

How can this be resolved? By resolving conflicts, which are dysfunctional programs and belief systems within the subconscious. We must erase beliefs that trigger conflict and replace them with self-empowering beliefs for healing to take place. Your personality always creates your reality. If you wish different then you must become different.

Every disease is a biological special program of nature created to support an organism during unexpected distress.

The conflict of separation will create short-term memory loss until the person is capable of facing and dealing with this real or perceived separation conflict. With children that are forgetful and have difficulty concentrating, this is called ADD or Attention Deficit Disorder. These children are dealing with a separation conflict and this condition often starts when they are separated from a parent. So what is ADHD? H stands for hyperactivity. What is hyperactivity? Being restless, not being able to sit still, wanting to move. This is linked to a conflict of feeling stuck, which always involves the muscles. The child is counteracting the distress with maximum movement. There is nothing wrong with these children; the answer lies with the adults. When we hear about ADHD we should not think of this as a disorder we should think of this as a separation and feeling stuck conflict. This is our invitation to make changes for the sake of our beautiful children who are being misdiagnosed and mistreated by a broken system based on emotional and physical abuse.

Memory loss is a symptom of Alzheimer's. With this age group it is often the loss of a separation of a spouse, a long-term friend, a partner and if this conflict goes on for years this is what causes dementia. Your beliefs are everything. The conflict of, 'I just want to forget'. We need to rewrite and retell our stories if we wish to have conflict resolution. Conventional medicine considers Alzheimer's a degenerative disease. It is not the people that are degenerating; it's society's dysfunctional beliefs in health. When we feel we are no longer playing an important role in our life, we feel forgotten and this is when we forget.

The new medicine, or should I say, the New World Practitioner, practices and trains in the art of connecting, reconnecting, communicating, about being there for each other, rejoicing in each other's company, it's about togetherness and about oneness. We are emotional beings and if we do not master our emotions they will master us. We are tribal beings and life on this planet is based on oneness, which means 'togetherness'.

HOW CONFLICT RELATES TO THE BRAIN

Glandular Breast Cancer	—————>	Nest-worry Conflict
Colon Cancer	—————>	Indigestible Morsel Conflict
Kidney Cancer	—————>	Abandonment Conflict
Lung Cancer	—————>	Death-Fright Conflict

Each cancer has its own area in the brain from where the cancer is controlled and each cancer is linked to a very specific type of conflict shock or trauma that correlates emotionally, psychologically and biologically to the same area in the brain that controls the cancer.

A very specific area in the brain stem always controls lung cancer, which is the oldest part of the brain. Lung cancer is always linked to a death-fright conflict.

Go to: library/docofdetox.com and click on 'I Am Woman' Guide.

Glandular breast cancer is always controlled by a specific area in the cerebellum, which is just next to the brain stem and is always caused by an unresolved nest worry conflict; in other words, unexpected worry and wellbeing of a loved one. The degree of the conflict will determine the degree of the disease.

Intraductal Breast cancer is controlled from a very specific area in the cerebrum and is always caused by a separation conflict. Animals experience this conflict in real terms for example when they're separated from their mate or from their offspring, when they're attacked by a predator or when they lose their nest or their territory, or they suffer a threat of starvation or a death-fright conflict.

Humans can experience this same conflict when we lose our home, our job or means of income. We can suffer an attack conflict when we're physically attacked, verbally attacked or when our integrity is attacked. We can suffer a starvation conflict when we don't know how to provide for ourselves and we can suffer a death-fright conflict, which is most common when we receive what we believe to be a life-threatening diagnosis; shock always follows a life-threatening diagnosis. But understanding this very important point, conflict whether real or unreal, will have the same effect on your body because your brain cannot tell the difference. This is how the psycho elite, the government and the systems that are supposedly there to protect us have used this mind manipulation of conflict to control and harvest us.

Are you beginning to see the difference between mastering your emotions or letting someone else master them for you? And let's not forget, the majority of the population is unconscious about the power of their subconscious beliefs.

This interaction between emotions, the brain and the organ applies to all diseases in each patient's case. Some examples are, heart conditions, skin disorders, diabetes, arthritis, mood disorders and mental conditions.

Eighty six percent of the population is suffering from an autoimmune disease, which means the body is attacking itself. But just know this, before the body was attacking itself on a physical level it was first attacked on an emotional level. Whether this attack happened on a conscious or unconscious level, the outcome is the same. Your thoughts and beliefs create things. The image you have for yourself and the world around you is either the blessing or the curse. When diagnosed by a medical doctor they are using statistics, which they are presuming you are a part of the majority. If you wish to be different then you must become that difference by breaking free from the herd and finding your true authentic self; the healer within.

Diseases are meaningful biological safety mechanisms. The disease will no longer be needed when the conflict or trauma has been resolved on an emotional level. The invisible always trumps the biological so don't panic. Diseases are curable but to create this new reality you must change parts of your personality. We are all born with the capability of healing our own diseases when we become a conscious creator.

People will continue to have conflicts, traumas and emotional shocks until they become the masters of their mind. Where the mind goes the body must follow. Continual shock will create a physical block and this is what we refer to as issues in the tissues, otherwise known as diseases.

The brain is the mediator between the subconscious and the body.

The brain is the control station in coping with each particular conflict situation.

The brain is the control station from which each and every biological program is controlled, coordinated and stored. It is the emotions that are the driving and leading component of every program. Everything begins with an image, then a thought and then an emotion; what you imagine and focus on, you create. The more you feed a program the bigger it gets. If it is a negative program that you continue to feed some day it will not just turn on you it will feed on you.

How we perceive and experience a trauma, conflict or shock is determined by our coping mechanisms, which are determined and rooted in our belief systems. The biological program and outcome will always depend on how a person perceives the trauma-shock conflict. Ten different people can experience the same trauma, conflict or shock but everyone will suffer or heal at different rates because our personality shapes and creates our reality.

The death-fright panic equates to not being able to breath, which equals lung cancer. Think about those people who have had lung cancer in your family and you will find this always holds true.

Cell proliferation is a significant biological program that happens with certain organs. When cell proliferation happens, this is tissue gain and when it is above a certain range cancer is considered malignant; when cell proliferation is below a certain range cancer is considered benign.

When a woman is experiencing a sexual conflict, the cervix and uterus will enter a significant biological program of tissue loss.

When you're experiencing conflict, shock trauma you are in the sympathetic or fight, flight, freeze state. The body cannot and never will heal in this state, conditions will only get worse.

Whenever you're in the healing phase, you are in the parasympathetic 'rest, repair, restore' state. This is the only state in which true healing can take place. Two of the greatest techniques for retraining the mind and body to enter and stay in the parasympathetic state are Belly Button Therapy and Avacen Energy Medicine.

When we are in a state of conflict we are in a prolonged sympathetic state, which causes us to be preoccupied with the conflict, causing sleep disturbances, loss of appetite and cold extremities. The moment we are out of the sympathetic state of conflict we enter into the parasympathetic healing state. There are only two emotions; these being Love and Fear. There are also two main ways to take action; self-love or self-hate. So, the sooner we get into this state of self-love and self-care the less conflict we will cause to the body. When you finally enter into the parasympathetic state of healing you will experience emotional relief, fatigue, increased appetite and maybe even fever.

The cold phase is known as the conflict phase.

The warm phase is known as the healing phase. You will experience symptoms such as: fever, warm hands, warm body, pain, inflammation and even swelling.

Rest is absolutely essential for healing to take place. When we're in the healing phase this is when fungi and bacteria begin their job of eating and eliminating tumors and other unwanted growths in our body. These organisms are the cleanup crew and are essential for life, even though we have labelled them as the bad guys or the predators of our body.

As a tumor grows the fungi and bacteria will match the growth of the tumor. This is so when we finally resolve the conflict with self-care and self-love these bacteria and fungi will be there to digest the tumor. Nature does not create something for nothing; all microbes have a purpose.

When you enter into the healing phase, otherwise a parasympathetic state of healing, you may experience healing symptoms such as: discharge, puss, night sweats, swelling, pain, inflammation, fever and fatigue.

Pain is a natural part of healing, it's your body's GPS, it's your ally and without it you would be dead already. When it comes to pain this is where people make the big mistake by jumping the gun and taking extreme measures such as shutting it down with drugs, or running away from it by ignoring it, which usually does not end well. The most important relationship you'll ever have on a physical level, is with your body and without pain as a guide you would always be out of alignment on all levels.

Understanding body talk is the most important language you will ever learn and the most important part of body talk is learning to embrace these symptoms with self-love and self-care. Even when there is blood in the discharge, this is a natural part of your healing process in action. Be aware of the bleeding but do not panic, take massive personal action to love yourself well.

Although this may be uncomfortable, night sweats can be excessive in the healing phase. All negative symptoms can be short lived when we start making decisions based on unconditional love for ourselves. But on a physical level, we must clean out and restore the large intestine and the liver as soon as possible. This will minimize the symptoms throughout the healing phase.

If antibiotics have been used then the bacteria and fungi needed to decompose the tumor will not exist anymore, so the tumor will become encapsulated and a dormant and encapsulated tumor can be found years later by testing, which will then cause another shock conflict, which may then trigger the brain to awaken the cancer. A thought is never just a thought, it's creating your future. Thoughts never sleep so wake up and become conscious and mindful of your thoughts.

We have been purposely misinformed on so many levels, on what cancer is, what cancer is not and how to treat it. We have been taught that symptoms such as discharge, pus, night sweats, swelling, pain, inflammation, fever and fatigue are the enemy when actually they are a major part of the natural healing process to create a healthier you; these symptoms are the clean-up crew.

If the patient has been made aware of all these built in life-saving mechanisms, they will no longer need to be frightened by these self-healing symptoms. They can now fully accept these symptoms as the healing symptoms they truly are – all of which caused fear and panic, up until now. Once you change your mind, you change the outcome. This whole episode will pass without any serious consequences when dysfunctional beliefs are erased and replaced with self-empowering ones. Remember, where the mind goes the body follows. Statistics are only for the majority so break free from the herd and write a BraveHeart story - never a survivor - always a thriver.

Most medical theories of conventional medicine are based on assumptions that have never been substantiated. Diseases are a natural process of healing when one has been out of alignment with their true authentic self.

What happens in the brain must happen in the body and what happens in the body must happen in the brain. In the healing phase there can be swelling in the brain in the area of conflict, which can cause dizziness or headaches. Contact us and we will show you how to lessen the suffering of these healing symptoms. Also, during the healing phase you will find that you will urinate more often; this is natural and healthy.

And for most it will be very difficult to wrap their head around this fact, but a brain tumor is not a malignant growth it is a part of the healing process. But I do not expect most people to accept or believe this due to indoctrination.

From hemorrhoids to cancer, when there is healing on a specific organ, this healing also takes place in the brain. The size of the tumor will decide how intense the healing is. The longer and stronger the conflict is, the more intense and longer the healing phase will be. What will it take for you to fill your own heart completely with self-love? This would mean, taking massive personal action without the reaction.

We must downgrade and eliminate every conflict as soon as possible to prevent the intense healing. But to do this we need proven take-action strategies that retrain the brain for self-healing. Check out our Whole life Coach Certification or our 3-day online Whole Life Mind & Body Masterclass to uncover and discover your unlimited potential as a spirited being.

Every so-called disease is a part of a significant biological program created to assist the organism in coping with emotional conflict.

Toxins cannot cause cancer. The theory that toxins cause cancer is based on the assumption that cancer is a malignant disease. But if we acknowledge that cancer is a meaningful biological process then we also understand that toxins can't cause cancer. Also when we finally understand the cancer originates with emotional conflict and each cancer is controlled by a specific area in the brain that acts as a mediator between the emotional body and the physical body.

When we finally grow to understand this, we have reached the tipping point of true healing. To come from the mindset that we must kill the cancer just know that you may be killing yourself in the process - 'The patient died but we cured the cancer'. From arthritis to a tumor, we are dealing with emotional issues in the tissues. We must understand that tumors are storage sheds of not just physical toxicity but emotional toxicity, unresolved. Since I was a young child I can remember governments ranting and raving about terrorism but I believe that the true terrorism lives in the minds of the majority because of programming - Only you hold the key to set your mind free.

Let me ask you a question... Why is it that people who live a healthy lifestyle, have a healthy diet and stay away from toxins still experience cancer and even die from it at an early age? The answer is, because conflict and trauma can happen at any age, even at conception, and let us never forget, the psychological rules the biological. This is why I have put together the most powerful training for couples called, 'How to Create a Brave Heart Family' - From pregnancy to the Golden Years.

A microscopic view of various bacteria, including rod-shaped and spherical forms, rendered in a blue color scheme. The bacteria are scattered across the frame, with some in sharp focus and others blurred in the background.

BIOLOGICAL CONFLICT & BREAST CANCER

Let's now talk about the biological conflict that is linked to the breast glands; this is the nest/worry conflict. This happens when a woman worries about a loved one. With a nest/worry conflict the breast glands will immediately start to grow larger and multiply, forming a breast gland tumor or a breast cancer in the glands. This can happen at any point in life. The size of the tumor will depend on the intensity and the length of the nest/worry conflict. The tumor is always proportional to how intense the conflict is. The more intense the conflict, the faster and bigger the tumor grows. The emotional state is the driving force of the conflict. Your emotions, the brain and the body always work in synchronicity. The emotions are the driver and the brain is the maker and shaper.

A right-handed woman responds to a conflict with her children or mother with the left breast or with the left side of the body. She responds to a worry conflict with the right breast with everyone else who is not her mother or child.

A left-handed woman responds to a conflict with her children or mother with the right breast or with the right side of the body. She responds to a worry conflict with the left breast with everyone else who is not her mother or child.

It is within our emotions that cancer originates. Symptoms are not seen or felt until the healing phase. In the healing phase the tumor will be broken down by bacteria which will activate the healing symptoms of: discharge, night sweats, protein loss or painful swelling.

A foul smelling discharge can be excreted through the skin, do not panic, this is the healing process and the tumor is being naturally broken down. It can take 4 to 6 months for the decomposing of the tumor; again do not panic because further conflict will reactivate the conflict active phase. It is essential to support protein loss with a protein rich diet, especially during night sweats.

As healing always takes place in a fluid environment, there can be painful swelling. It is an absolute must to support the body with proper rest so the body can restore and repair. Healthy organic plant-based food, rich in protein, along with gentle cleansing are also crucial. Only supportive positive people should be around the patient. The biggest complication for anyone going through the healing phase of cancer is fear and panic caused by the patient, family members and friends who have no true understanding of how disease and healing actually works within the human body.

Fear and panic cause water retention. The retained water will go into the organ involved and cause more pain and swelling. Fear and panic are mentally and physically destructive. If a woman does not have TB bacteria to remove the tumor, the tumor will encapsulate and stay in place.

A person can live with an encapsulated tumor, without symptoms or complications, for the rest of their life. Cancer doesn't kill; it's the fear, the panic, the extra conflict from shock and trauma created by health care professionals and the healthcare system many have chosen to surround themselves with that cripples and kills.

Conflict relapses are caused by specific triggers. Until we understand that we must erase these triggers, we will continue to trigger the conflict. Finding peace, faith, courage and staying connected to your LionHeart Breath is key in setting yourself free from this fear based program called 'Healthcare'. Unplug from all systems and take massive personal action toward what you want in your life... and nothing else.

yourself, otherwise, finding peace, faith, courage and staying connected to your LionHeart Breath - Focus only on what you want in your life and nothing else.

We must become aware of the places, people and things that trigger conflict and panic or we reactivate the conflict trauma, which interrupts and prolongs the healing phase and this is the reason for chronic conditions and recurring cancers.

There can be no permanent healing on the physical level until there is healing on the emotional level. Yes, they did cut out the tumor, but did they also remove the belief that created the first place. Without the belief and understanding that we are the true healing then we will continue to be programmed to push the panic button over and over again.

Milk duct cancer is caused by separation conflict. The lining of the milk ducts begin to ulcerate creating tissue loss and contraction of the tissue. The feeling of, 'I can no longer care for you' or 'I can no longer nurture you' creates the conflict. If this condition continues, we get 'scirrhous knots' which are fibrotic scar tissue knots viewed as cancer by the medical system. However, they are not cancerous and they are not tumors. Scirrhous knots are created following tissue loss where the remaining tissue pulls together to form a knot. These knots are usually 'treated' by having a mastectomy. When the conflict is resolved, the ulceration stops. Tissue loss is replenished and replaced with healthy cells. In the restorative phase, there will always be swelling because healing always occurs in a fluid environment; there can be pain and the breast can be hot, red and itchy. All of these symptoms are positive signs of a natural healing phase. The majority of breast cancers are intraductal breast cancers linked to separation conflict. To support this statement, take a look at the divorce rate... Without stability there will always be a separation conflict. Fear of losing a loved one, fear of separation, death of a family member or friend are additional examples of situations that can switch on the separation conflict program. Not everyone will experience this, however. If you have the proper tools to process your emotions, you will not become conflicted, traumatized or trigger a life-threatening conflict illness. Wolfe Non-Surgical Body Therapy is a must, along with Clapping, to heal breast conditions.

As soon as you make peace with the conflict then healing can and will begin. The length and depth of your grief, sadness, anger, fear or other negative emotions will determine the intensity of the illness and the length and intensity of the healing phase symptoms. The healing phase can be difficult and go on for a very long time if you do not eliminate the triggers that activated it in the first place.

A person experiences cold hands when unconsciously or subconsciously triggering or retriggering a conflict – let cold hands be a warning symptom to you.

Inflammatory breast cancer is known as one of the most dangerous breast cancers, though it's just inflammation of the breast, ignorance of one's own health and the conflicts being run that create this life-threatening situation.

Metastasis

If it's true that cancer metastasizes throughout the body via the blood and lymph then why don't they screen blood donations for cancer. Also why isn't there cancer of the heart and the arteries when the blood flows through these two things the most, when it comes to metastasis. So, how do cancer cells get into the brain when we have what's called the blood/brain barrier. Also, why doesn't brain cancer metastasize to other parts of the body. Understand, secondary cancers are triggered by further or secondary conflict shocks not by metastasis, otherwise, by continually pushing the panic button inflammation will eventually set the whole body on fire. Cancers are controlled and created by specific parts of the brain and triggered by continual conflict, shock and trauma.

As an example: A woman is diagnosed with breast cancer, which is triggered by a separation conflict. Then she goes to the doctor and he gives her a diagnoses, which creates a death/fright conflict and this impacts the area of her brain that controls the lungs so she develops lung cancer. For most people this philosophy may sound foreign but show me conclusive proof that cancer metastasizes to other parts of the body. Lung cancer is the most frequent secondary cancer with bone cancer being next. When a person experiences bone cancer as a secondary cancer this is a self-devaluation conflict. The fear of a mastectomy, the fear of being useless on that side of the body can create the self-devaluation conflict.

So, if the medical system was correct this would mean that a cancerous breast gland cell breaks away from the milk ducts and migrates all the way to the bone and causes in the bone – a hole; this is their logic. All of this can be prevented when you understand the art of mastering the mind by mastering the emotions and loving yourself well with the Perfect Day Lifestyle.

We must find our Brave Heart roar because emotional intelligence is the art of living without the fear of cancer or any other disease.

UNDERSTANDING HEART ATTACKS

Let me make this perfectly clear – all bodily processes are controlled by the brain and the brain is ruled by our emotions.

It was found, through many studies, that all heart attack victims have experienced a major conflict trauma prior to the heart attack. First, the emotional conflict triggers a specific part in the brain which correlates to a specific organ. In this case, it is the heart.

As I stated earlier, diseases are significant biological special programs created to assist an organism during unexpected distress. Diseases are all built-in survival programs for those who have not awakened to the idea that all thoughts matter because thoughts create matter; thought form creates physical form. The heart is the recorder of all your love relationships.

How we experience a conflict is determined by our personality – our map of reality made up of our belief systems. The same conflict may traumatize one person and not affect another, except for the experience of the learning.

The Heart

Coronary heart diseases and complications arise from 'territorial loss conflict' such as loss of our home, job, anything of personal value or anything that we consider a part of our domain or territory. In this instance, the lining of the coronary arteries begin to ulcerate causing tissue loss in order to allow increased blood flow. Increased blood flow allows for more energy and vigor to facilitate a conflict resolution. The symptom or disease of 'angina pectoris' in the conflict active phase causes a stabbing heart pain that travels into the neck and down the arms. Conflict intensity is determined by how intensely we experienced and were affected by the shock.

The inability to process emotions with ease creates dis-ease. The greater the conflict, the greater the impact on the brain and the effect on the coronary arteries. As soon as the conflict is resolved, ulceration stops and the healing begins.

80% of all cholesterol is produced by the liver; 20% comes from our daily diet. Cholesterol is not the culprit that the Medical System has made it out to be; cholesterol is used by the body to repair arterial walls until complete tissue healing takes place. During the healing phase, cholesterol levels will rise, and continue to rise, until there is a lifestyle change emotionally and physically. Don't panic; elevated cholesterol is a natural part of arterial healing. Cholesterol is like candle wax; it is used by the body to fill in the cracks of the arteries until a complete healing has taken place.

Due to mineral depletion in arteries, mainly calcium, cholesterol is used to glue the cracks together until the blood Ph balance is restored and arterial walls are healed.

Dr. Ron Rosedale MD stated, "Cholesterol is important for cardiovascular health. Cholesterol is a necessary ingredient in any sort of cellular repair."

The brain is responsible for all healing and dis-ease, from cancer to a heart attack and everything in between. The psychological creates the biological; we are light energy electromagnetic frequency beings with emotions being the main driver. The frequency of the emotion triggers the brain to initiate and release specific hormones and chemicals. These hormones and chemicals can be healing and restorative or destructive, depending on whether the frequency is negative or positive.

The psychological and physical damage that one experiences will always equal the impact of the shock/trauma conflict. It is vitally important to initiate the LionHeart Breathing Technique, along with the 3-2-1 BraveHeart Band Countdown to diffuse a conflict by replacing it with a peaceful healing resolution as quickly as possible. You have one second to snap back to the present moment which is your only true point of power. Living in the past or the future is what's wrong with people today; healing can only take place in the present moment. The present moment is the only place that we can create a new belief system which supports permanent health and healing. The present moment is your only true point of power for creation.

The natural life saving processes of the body, that the medical system and the majority view as negative, are actually life-saving symptoms to keep us alive until we awaken and become the masters of our emotions – emotions are the main driver of the brain. Retrain the brain and reclaim your God-given right to abundance on all levels.

Internal scar tissue in the body occurs naturally when healing, whether it be from surgery, accidents, sports injuries or autoimmune diseases such as cancer. Where the real problem lies is health care, whether medical or natural, which has never had a healthy or effective way to rid the body of the overcompensation of internal scar tissue formation that occurs after the healing is complete.

By implementing Wolfe Non-Surgical Body Therapy and The Perfect Day Lifestyle, you no longer have to live with the internal scar tissue issue created by inflammation, prolonged conflict, trauma or surgery. Internal scar tissue creates physical blocks that choke off circulation creating more inflammation, tissue degeneration, joint deterioration, nerve pain, organ complications and tumors. Health issues and premature aging are an internal scar tissue issue for the majority; break free from herd mentality and let us show you how to remove the invisible bonds that bind you and blind you from your true health potential and happiness. Surgery must become your last option; with Wolfe Non-Surgical Body Therapy we guarantee life-changing, life-saving results.

Just know that fear and panic are the main triggers which continually activate dysfunctional belief systems within the subconscious and create the trauma and shock conflict we call disease. We must become conscious of these subconscious programs if we wish to put an end to the psychological warfare that is continually being downloaded on an unconscious level.

Heart - Myocardium Heart Muscle

With a heart attack involving the coronary arteries, you will get a slow heartbeat; with a heart attack involving the coronary veins, you will get a fast heartbeat. Heart attacks involving coronary veins are linked to a sexual conflict such as sexual abuse, rape, pornography, etc.

Conflict of the heart muscle is negative stress overload – money, family and work. The heart is the recorder of your love relationships with yourself and everyone else. This is why we teach that love is a self-serve job; we must fill our own hearts first if we wish to have a full, healthy and happy life.

Why do you think that heart disease is the number 1 killer? The answer is because the majority of the population walk around with an empty heart, a broken heart or a heart in pieces. Oh, my achy breaky heart... Never forget, BraveHeart, love is and always will be a self-serve job.

Symptoms of a myocardium attack are heart muscle cramps, tachycardia, cold sweats and nausea brought on by being in a prolonged sympathetic – fear based – state.

Half of the patients admitted to the hospital for heart attacks have normal cholesterol levels. In today's society, a large number of the population are suffering from the symptoms of high blood pressure. High blood pressure is due to running a panic/fear program on a continual basis on an unconscious level.

The active phase of this conflict is tissue loss, paralysis, weakness and shortness of breath.

After the healing phase is complete, the heart muscle will actually be stronger, as long as the conflict does not go on too long or become reactivated.

A good example of this concept is a bone break. When a broken bone heals, it is stronger at the break point. This also occurs with muscles, tendons and ligaments; they will also become stronger as long as the over accumulation of scar tissue formation during the healing phase has been transformed back into healthy connective tissue. This is why Wolfe Non-Surgical Body Therapy is so important after the healing phase – it returns the blood, lymph and energy flow back to the tissues. The body will always overcompensate, whether healing bone or tissue, so make sure that you remove the excess debris after healing has taken place. If you do not you'll be left with a physical block that will create future problems or even cripple you later in life.

No matter the conflict, the sooner we downgrade or resolve it the sooner we can reduce the chances of causing a life-threatening crisis such as a large brain edema; all crises occur in the brain first before any other part of the body. Swelling in the brain is a natural part of the body's healing process; swelling takes place in the specific part of the brain that is associated with the specific organ or part of the body in the diseased state. In other words, if we do not resolve the emotional conflict and reduce the inflammation in the body related to this part of the brain, inflammation and swelling will continue.

On a side note, anyone who wishes to remain healthy, or those in crisis or dealing with an autoimmune disease, must take steps to eliminate and protect themselves from blue light poisoning from computers, cell phones, tablets, led lighting, fluorescent lighting, T.V. and gaming stations. The majority of the population do not realize that blue light causes more brain inflammation than anything else today.

Let's now talk about sleep apnea which is becoming a true pandemic. Sleep apnea is chronic heart stress linked to being completely overwhelmed. Sleep apnea is small mini heart attacks – small mini myocardial attacks – involving the diaphragm. People who suffer from sleep apnea have ongoing unresolved conflicts that are continually triggered throughout their day. At night, when they enter into the rest and repair phase, sleep apnea signs appear. Sleep apnea symptoms will continue until they create a new map of reality which will not happen until they change parts of their personality. Until you understand what the trigger or the belief system is that creates the conflict, you will continue to suffer. Sleep apnea is a case of being overwhelmed and fearful on a continual basis throughout the day. And as long as this continues, you will not enter into or ever have complete healing. Understand, you must become your own practitioner. The systems that say they are there for you will never truly be there for you. Either find your roar and become a 'BraveHeart Warrior' or become a 'Beat Up Worrier'.

We must make a mental shift and understand that diseases are a built-in safety mechanism for our survival and healing – not our demise. You must take this one fact to heart. We can no longer go to war with ourselves on an emotional or physical level. We must learn how to love ourselves well. If we do not learn the art of body talk, we will continually be at war with ourselves and creating autoimmune disease.

If you continue to go to battle with yourself because you do not understand how to love yourself well, you will find yourself laid-out and in bed on a continual basis in the rest and repair phase. Disease is not the enemy – disinformation and a dysfunctional Healthcare System is.

Every disease originates from a dysfunctional belief causing a conflict shock that catches an individual completely off guard, traumatizing them on an emotional and physical level. Until we are taught how to master the mind, our life will remain a landmine of disease. Each emotional conflict shock impacts a different but specific area in the brain. The brain then triggers the corresponding organ or body part, activating a special biological program to assist the organism in coping with the particular dysfunctional belief which created the conflict situation. This is why the brain is known as the mediator or the controller and coordinator of all our biological programs. Emotions are the leading component of life.

How you experience each and every individual conflict will determine the state of your life. In other words, what symptoms, how many symptoms, how intense they are and how long they last will be determined by how you experience conflict. Your conflicts are a very personal event, determined by your map of reality which is made up of your belief systems. What you believe is how you perceive; what you perceive will make and shape your health.

For example, feeling powerless can cause thyroid problems. Anger will cause liver problems. Fear and disgust conflicts cause diabetes and hypoglycemia.

The majority of the population lives in an unconscious state of stress during the day. The conflict created is carried on through the night causing sleep disorders such as sleep apnea.

All body processes are triggered solely by your emotions, though controlled by the brain. Almost all digestive disorders exist because we've choked down negative emotions that we are unable to digest, assimilate or eliminate, which create conflict in our digestive systems. Bad foods create bad bacteria which create bad moods... Where the mind goes the body follows. This is law... this is real science.

Trapped emotion within the intestines, especially the large intestine, will become encapsulated creating a growth or tumor. How big and how fast the tumor grows will be determined by the intensity of the emotional conflict. The more intense the conflict, the faster the tumor will grow and the bigger the tumor will be.

It is in the emotions that 'disease' originates. It is also in the emotions that 'disease' begins to heal.

Eating healthy, exercise, proper sleep, healthy habits and reducing stress are all important, but until you master your emotions – otherwise, the mind – you will continue to create conflict and trauma in your life and in the lives of those you love.

When you finally embrace the BraveHeart Way, the authentic you will finally be in the driver's seat of your life.

Just as we have been programmed by the Media, Government and Corporations to believe that we are stupid, weak and a burden on society, we can program ourselves to be BraveHeart Heros and the light for our family. Repetition is the key to healing and setting yourself free.

Until we are willing to accept the truth that most medical health care is based on fraudulent science, we will never have the power to heal ourselves as a family.

Let me leave you with one last beautiful thought. Your life is a movie and you are the writer, director and producer. Movies are made from thousands of images. What is the image that you have for yourself, your family and the world around you? Your images will decide if your life will be a horror, drama or an adventure love story where you are the leading star and BraveHeart Hero that saves the day, each and every day of your life.

Welcome to the greatest show on Earth... YOU! :)

God bless everyone. Take back your power to heal. And remember:

"I am love, I am healed, I am Brave Heart. Today and everyday, from the moment I rise until I gently close my eyes, I will trust, honour, respect, protect, forgive and totally love myself first and foremost, before anyone else or anything else, so help me God. Because I am, I can. I am healed. I am Brave Heart.

3-2-1 You got this.

FIND YOUR ROAR, BRAVEHEART.

Thanks for joining me. Let us grow strong together.

VIRUSMYTH – A Health Linking Aids Website VIRALMANIA

“Up to today there is no single scientifically convincing evidence for the existence of HIV. Not even one such a retrovirus has been isolated and purified by the methods of classical virology.” Dr. Heinz Ludwig Sanger, Emeritus Professor of Molecular Biology and Virology, Max-Planck-Institute for Biochemistry, Munich

"If there is evidence that HIV causes Aids, there should be scientific documents which either singly or collectively demonstrate that fact. There is no such document." Dr. Kary Mullis, Biochemist, 1993 Nobel Prize for Chemistry.

In May 1983, doctors at the Institute Pasteur in France reported that they had isolated a new virus, which they suggested might be the cause of AIDS.

Koch's Postulates

A micro-organism that is the cause of a disease must be

- Found in all cases of the disease examined
- Prepared and maintained in a pure culture
- Capable of producing the original infection

Scientists Allege Fraud in 1984 HIV/AIDS Papers

(NaturalNews) Thirty-seven legal, medical and research professionals have sent a letter to the journal Science, asking it to officially retract the original four papers making the case for HIV as the cause of AIDS. According to the letter's authors, widespread evidence has now emerged that the studies were not only poorly carried out, but that their results were falsified.

In 1984, Robert Gallo published four articles in Science, claiming that he had isolated the HIV virus and concluding that it was the "probable cause of AIDS." Investigative journalist Janine Roberts has discovered, however, that Gallo made last-minute alterations to the paper and its results.

"I was shocked when I read the original draft of the key scientific paper now widely cited as proving HIV causes AIDS," said Roberts, author of Fear of the Invisible.

"Gallo's handwritten last-minute changes had reversed what the scientists in his lab had originally concluded. This demonstrates a stunning disregard for the scientific process and a very disturbing breach of public trust."

Along with a copy of the handwritten changes, the letter from the 37 experts includes a letter from Gallo himself, admitting to another researcher that HIV could not be isolated from human samples alone; and a letter from an electron microscopy expert saying that there was no HIV virus contained in Gallo's 1984 samples.

Dr. Stefan Lanka who is a German Virologist and a Molecular Biologist. Dr. Lanka proved that, "viruses have a supportive function in the interaction of cells". Viruses are not the enemy that we have been made to believe. Dr. Stefan Lanka revealed through his research that, " Viruses are vital components of simple life-forms. They do not exist in complex organism such as humans, animals, or plants."

Viruses do exist in chlorella algae but they exist without harming the host organism. Microbes do not cause diseases, microbes do not harm the organism they play a supportive role. Dr. Stefen Lanka states that there is no scientific evidence of the existence of the HIV. The HIV virus has never been isolated from a host cell, which is the basic main criterium of proving the existence of a virus. Also the DNA of the virus has never been properly identified. The science of virology it is only legitimate to talk about a new virus if the DNA has been identified and this was not done with the HIV virus. Dr. Lanka states, "No particle of the HIC has ever been obtained pure, free of contaminants; nor has a complete piece of HIV RNA or the transcribed DNA ever been proved to exist." Welcome to the HIV scam – Trust No One.

Dr. Lanka, after he uncovered the HIV fraud, he naturally asked himself, 'what if the claim that measles, rubella, mumps, hepatitis, the flu and so forth are also caused by viruses and is a lie'. What he discovered was that not a single paper proved or showed the existence of the viruses. Dr. Lanka's research caused thousands of people to demand answers from the medical system and the scientific world that viruses existed. But it turned out to be the same story, there was no evidence of a measles virus, no evidence of a hepatitis virus, there was no evidence provided for any virus.

WHEN PARENTS BECOME ACTIVE – www.klein-klein-aktion.com

“We have been asking the authorities, politicians and medical institutes, about the scientific evidence for the existence of viruses that are said to cause diseases and therefore require ‘immunization’. We have not received even one concrete answer which provide evidence for the existence of viruses for which we and our children are vaccinated.”

CHILDREN ARE VACCINATED AGAINST PHANTOM VIRUSES.

By the age of 5 in Canada, they have already had 20 vaccinations.

A quote taken from the book, ‘Virus Mania’: “As with HIV, isolating one of these viruses in a purified form with its complete genetic material (genome) and virus shell, directly from it, and then imaging it with an electron microscope has never taken place.”

Dr. Hamer: “Aids is a combination of symptoms that existed already long before the invention of Aids”. Aids is the result of the invention of Aids - Where the mind goes the body follows.

Symptoms, otherwise, 'Diseases' caused by an, 'HIV/AIDS' diagnosis shock:

Death-fright conflicts – lung cancer, lung TB

Fright-scare conflicts – bronchitis, pneumonia

Isolation conflicts – Kidney cancer

Separation conflicts – skin rashes, eczema...

Self-devaluation conflicts – bone cancer, lymphoma, leukemia

Attack conflicts – Kaposi Sarcoma

“For decades Kaposi Sarcoma was considered a rare disease that mostly affected men of Jewish heritage or African men. In the last 20 years, however, the vast majority of Kaposi Sarcoma cases have developed in association with HIV and AIDS, especially among homosexual men.”

Fungi and TB bacteria remove tissue that is no longer needed, tissue that was created during the emotional conflict active period while other bacteria help to replace and restore tissue that has been damaged.

Immunization is meaningless

Lanka, “Antibodies are, in reality, soluble blood proteins, which play a central role in the healing of wounds.” (Lanka, Interview, 2005)

There are no diseases, just meaningful biological processes that are created by conflict from dysfunctional belief systems. – Dr. Darrell Wolfe

*Medical science interprets the rise of antibodies as an immune response to the virus against the person who is vaccinated. This is, of course a wrong and false conclusion because the antibody level does not rise as a result of an immune response because there is no immune system to respond to, just a support system. But the anti body level rises as an indication that the body is in the process of trying to heal the cell damage caused by the chemicals in the vaccination. It is the poison in the vaccine that is the real danger for our health, not the viruses that don't exist.

If these vaccination toxins enter the brain they can cause serious nerve damage and neurological symptoms like paralysis, epileptic seizures and symptoms of autism, which explains why the numbers of autism is sky rocketing with children that have been vaccinated.

The Blood Brain Barrier will only allow water, sugar and fat soluble to pass through this barrier. Vaccine manufacturers are using solvents as carriers and it's these solvents that literally deliver these toxic poisons into the brain. And this is why Autism is sky rocketing today. Increased vaccinations equals increased Autism.

EFFECTIVE?

- Vaccines contain extremely harmful toxins.
- The presence of viruses in the human body has never been scientifically proven
- Based on Natures Law, microbes don't cause diseases but play a supportive role during healing.
